DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:

- I. Claims 1-8 and 11-23, drawn to hybridoma and kit with antibody from 3H5 and 9A10C3, classified in class 435, subclass 326, and class 530, subclass 388.22.
- II. Claims 9, 10 and 37-40, drawn to DcR3 fusion protein and pharmaceutical composition comprising the fusion protein, classified in class 530, subclasses 350 and 387.3.
- III. Claims 24-36, drawn to method of determining DcR3 level using an antibody, classified in class 435, subclass 7.1.

The inventions are distinct, each from the other because of the following reasons:

The protein of Invention II is related to the hybridoma and antibody-containing kit of Invention I by virtue of being the cognate antigen, necessary for the production of the antibody through the hybridoma. Although the protein and antibody are related due to the necessary steric complementarity of the two, they are distinct inventions because the protein can be used for another and materially different process other than for production of the antibody, such as to assay or purify the natural ligand of the protein (as the protein is itself a receptor).

Inventions I and III are related as product and process of use. The inventions can be shown to be distinct if either or both of the following can be shown: (1) the process for using the product as claimed can be practiced with another materially different product or (2) the product as claimed can be used in a materially different process of using that product (MPEP § 806.05(h)). In the instant case the hybridoma is not used with the method of Invention III, although it might be possible to use the kit with the method. Further, the kit may be used in a materially different process such as in determining the presence or absence of DcR3, without the requirement to determine DcR3 levels.

The fusion protein of Invention II is related to the method of Invention III as product and process of use. The inventions can be shown to be distinct if either or both of the following can be shown: (1) the process for using the product as claimed can be practiced with another materially different product or (2) the product as claimed can be used in a materially different process of using that product (MPEP § 806.05(h)). In the instant case, the fusion protein can be used for another and materially different process, such as to assay or purify the natural ligand of the receptor protein, and the method does not require the use of the fusion protein.

Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above, have acquired a separate status in the art as shown by their different classification, have recognized divergent subject matter, and because each invention requires a separate non-coextensive search, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

A telephone call was made to Geraldine F. Baldwin on July 16, 2003, to request an oral election to the above restriction requirement, but did not result in an election being made.

Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include an election of the invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 CFR 1.143).

Applicant is reminded that upon the cancellation of claims to a non-elected invention, the inventorship must be amended in compliance with 37 CFR 1.48(b) if one or more of the currently named inventors is no longer an inventor of at least one claim remaining in the application. Any amendment of inventorship must be accompanied by a request under 37 CFR 1.48(b) and by the fee required under 37 CFR 1.17(i).
